Irish Ancestors: Not Just Names and Dates
by Sharon Callaghan

This talk will deal with research Sharon Callaghan undertook in compiling her historical non-fiction book, Paths of Opportunity, which relates to the Irish Montreal experience of her great-great-grandparents' family. She collected a lot of genealogical data over many years of research, but it wasn't enough for her. Knowing they were living people and more than statistics, she set out in search of other sources to better portray what their lives had been like and what had been going on around them.

About the Speaker

Born in Montreal, Sharon Callaghan completed her Bachelor of Arts in sociology, with a minor in anthropology, following early retirement from the Canadian Forces. A long-time interest in genealogy has revealed mostly Irish connections, though her earliest Canadian roots reach back to the early 1600s in Quebec. She has written articles for genealogy journals and newsletters and also given presentations on Quebec Land Records research. A history and research enthusiast, she has completed two books pertaining to Irish Montreal.
